Automotive Service and Repair Trust administered by NYCM - Fully Funded

Cicero, New York New York Compensation Managers (NYCM) announced today that the Automotive Service and Repair Self-Insurance Trust received “no funding issues” status from the State of New York Workers’ Compensation Board in its annual Level 1 Funding Review.

The Level I Review, which examined the Automotive Trust’s fiscal year ending December 31, 2005, means that the program remains on solid financial ground and continues to provide high quality, trust-based workers’ compensation insurance to its growing customer’s in the New York State Automotive Industry.

Trusts are associations of employers that come together to provide Statutory Workers’ Compensation Insurance benefits to their employees. Trusts are subject to stringent financial and operating guidelines enforced by the New York State Workers’ Compensation Board.

The Automotive Service and Repair Trust is a self-funded workers’ compensation trust offered by NYCM to New York Automotive Service and Repair facilities and their employees – such as repair shops, dealerships, body shops, brake and muffler shops, gas stations, private garages, and more – to help control the costs of workers’ compensation while also providing first class services such as safety, claims management, and nurse case management services.

Press Release

With workers' compensation reform continuing to be a hot topic in the State Legislature, the positive level 1 Review confirms the financial strength of the Automotive Program. The trust has continually grown each quarter from its inception and currently has over 230 business participants.
